Death Certificate Was About to Be Signed When Suspended Animation Returned.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Benwood, W. Va., April 7.-Joe Polich, a middle-aged Slav, came to life while a Coroner's jury was holding an inquest over his body. While working in the yard of the Wheel-ing Steel plant he suddenly fell, and his fellow workmen believed him to be dead. His body was carried to the City Hall. Squire Harry Riddle impaneled a jury and had taken some evidence. He had filed out a blank death certificate and was about to sign it, when Pollch sat up, rubbed his eyes, and looked about in a dazed sort of way. Physicians pronounced it an unusual case of suspended animation resulting from cramps. The funeral has been postponed and Pollch will be back at his work soon.

NEW YORK EASTER SERVICES.

Christian Scientists' Magnificent New Church Was Dedicated.

New York, April 7.—At all the churches in the city daborate Easter services were held, and the weather seemed to have no appreciable effect on the attendance. At Old Trimity Church more than 1,000 people were unable to find even standing room within the doors. The music in the church was of the finest character.

Many of the grayes in both Trinity and St. Paul's grayevaris were decorated with St. Paul's graveyards were decorated with flowers in honor of the day. In St. Paul's the huge tomb of the Rhinelanders was fairly buried beneath hydrangeas, hyacinths and Easter lilles, and in Trinity Graveyard there was the same lavish display of flowers.

Archbishop Corrigan officiated at St. Patrick's Cathedral and the great church was more than filled with the crowds that came. Only those who were provided with tickets could gain admittance.

The magnificent edifice of the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, at Sixty-eighth street and Central Park, West, was dedicated to-day, just two years after the corner stone was laid. There was a very large attendance, for the great part made up of people from other cities. There was no attempt made at decoration, with the exception of a few plants and flowers around the reader's dais and desk. Addresses were made by Mrs. Laura Lathrop, the first reader of the church, and John Carroll Lathrop, her son, who is the second reader. Instead of the benediction, a letter was read from Mrs. Mary Baker C. Eddy, in which she sent good wishes to the church.

SWINDLED OUT OF EASTER HAT

Errand Boy Meets Affable Young Man on Street.

A clever scheme to obtain an Easter hat was worked upon Herman Smily, a negro errand boy, Saturday night, and as a result Mrs. Woerman, who lives at No. 1429
Blair avenue, had no new hat for Easter.
Mrs. Woerman had purchased a hat from Jennie Sporing, a milliner at No. 1021
Franklin avenue, which was to be delivered at her home Saturday night. The box was given to Smily to deliver. While on the way to the house, at the corner of Blair avenue and Biddle street, the boy met a well-dressed young man, who asked him to direct him to Mrs. Woerman's house.
The negro informed the stranger that he was going there, and said he would show him the place. When they reached the house the stranger told the negro that as he was going in, he would deliver the bundle. The negro gave him the package and he returned to the milliner store.

Mrs. Woerman waited until iate at night for her hat, and when it did not arrive she sent to the milliner's for an explanation.
The milliner questioned the negro and he told her of what had transpired. The matter was reported to the police, but they were unable to find the hat or the young man who had taken it from the boy. sult Mrs. Woerman, who lives at No. 1439

BE ENCOURAGED.

Agricultural Department Would Like to Keep at Home the Mil; lions Spent Abroad for Nuts.

YOUNG TREES BEING IMPORTED.

Among Them Are 400 Pistachios Which Will Be Planted in New Mexico and Arizona-Product Almost Unknown Here.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, April 7.-Mr. D. G. Fairchild, one of the Agricultural Department's trav zona and New Mexico, where it is believed the soil and climate are suited for their growth. They are expected to arrive in about three weeks.

The Pistachio nut is known in America generally speaking, only to confectioners, it being too expensive for common use. It is said, however, to be one of the most delicious of eating nuts. In appearance it resembles a good deal the almond, except that the meat, in most varieties, is a bright green, imparting that color to creams and cardy flavored with it.

The nut is very popular in Mediterranean posts, where it has driven almost all other nuts out of the market. Although the nut is grown mainly in Greece, it is sold almost invariably by Syrian boys, who go about the streets with a bag of nuts thrown over their shoulders. These boys, by the way, have a peculiar method of doing business. They enter cafes and other places where people are seated and, holding out a handful of the nuts, invite a guess as to the number. If the per son guesses correctly, he is given the nuts for nothing. If he fails to guess correctly he is honor bound to buy them.

To Encourage Nut-Raising at Home. Mr. Fairchild has also sent to the de partment an equal number of young filbert trees from Greece. The nuts from these trees are the largest and have the finest flavor of any filberts the department has yet discovered, and an effort is to be made to encourage their growth.

Some fine specimens of the English walnut have also been lately received, some of them being several times as large as the or-dinary English walnut found in our mar-

English walnuts are grown in various parts of the United States, California being an especially large producer, but their consumption has grown so rapidly that the im-portation of the nut has not been decreased. The importation of nuts into the United States amounts each year to between $2,000,-000 and $3,000,000, and the department anxious that as much as possible of this money should be kept at home. English walnuts, despite their name, are not grown in England, but in Persia and other warm, dry countries, as are also most of the other nuts used in America for table purposes.

The department experts believe that Arizona and New Mexico, as well as parts of some of the Southwestern States, are suited both as to soil and climate, to raise any kind of nuts and fruits that can be grown

The date palm has been found to flouris on the arid alkali plains of Arizona, and they promise not only to make those bar ren wastes yield a profitable harvest, but the hope of the future is that they will some day supply the American market with home-grown dates, apart from the question of reclaiming the deserts.

FATAL CATTLE DISEASE RAGING

Stock in Almost Every European Country Is Affected.

Washington, April 7.—The officials of the Agricultural Department are closely watching all reports from abroad regarding the extent of the foot and mouth disease, a fatal malady that is raging among live stock in almost every country throughout Europe. For the last three years the outbreak has been general on the European Continent, and the reports constantly arriving from various points do not indicate any diminution in its extent. The Government, as it has done since the epidemic reached such alarming dimensions, is refusing to admit any cattle, sheep or swine, except from the British Isles. This is done not only to protect the vast live stock interests of this country, but also to protect our $30,000,0,0 or $40,000,000 annual export trade in cattle.
